Some of these Grüner Veltliner - Weingarten were already planted in the 1960s. They bring high quality, because the grapes and berries are very small due to the age of the vines. The maturity potential is also very high. The reading is rather late, usually only in November. (Due to the low root height, we have reached a high foliage. In comparison to this, there is a low yield, which is advantageous for the quality.) 12 months storage in the large oak barrel help the wine next to its dense fruit to appropriate maturity.
