This special wine grows on one of our best locations, the Langenloiser Seeberg, a very rocky location, facing south, at about 350m above sea level. After a late harvest, followed by a long, slow spontaneous fermentation (in steel tanks), which is responsible for a full-bodied, creamy flavor and makes the Riesling very durable. The Seeberg is a very rocky location. This is also noticeable in the wine. In addition to a nice full-bodied fruity taste this Riesling shows a fine minerality on the palate. He has a nice long finish and goes well with strong fish dishes (eg carp).
